Dear Fr. Merton -

Dorothy showed us the poem you sent - which she said you described as "grusome" - and we found it very powerful. When printed in this paper either next week or in the September issue it will be our first "comment" on the trial ending in Israel now - and the sumptuous pertaining to this sub-human arms race.

I am very interested, personally, in knowing if the small meditative book - Thoughts on Solitude - is available either from you or the abbey. Dorothy has a copy, I has told me about it, but it is learned out and it will be in the hands of friends for an indefinite period. Being pessimistic, when on the subject of books returning, but also desirous of having a copy for the paper I'm hoping one is still available. We will forward payment, of course, to the Abbey.

Remembering you in my prayers -

In Christ,
James Frost
