*Elected silence sing to me
And beat upon my whorled ear,
Pipe me to pastures still and be
The music that I care to hear*

About this book . . .

In the decade that has passed since it first appeared this book has become established as the leading spiritual classic of our times. It is written by a man who is of our day and age as St Augustine and Cardinal Newman were of theirs. It traces quite simply in readable, contemporary English, the story of one man's restlessness in the twentieth-century urban civilization of the West, of his search for peace and where and how he finally found it. This, his first book, is filled with the freshness and excitement of the long voyage of discovery which preceded Thomas Merton's emergence, with his subsequent writing, as one of the foremost spiritual writers of today. This is what the reviewers said about Elected Silence on publication:

"It is a rare pleasure to read an autobiography with a pattern and meaning valid for all of us. It is a book one reads with a pencil so as to make it one's own."—GRAHAM GREENE

"A remarkable book, perhaps a classic of its kind, written in a vivid, rich and alert style which ranges from crisp vernacular to passionate eloquence, full of picturesque incident and passing at times into religious ecstasy . . . there is no escaping its spell."—Times Literary Supplement

"Moving and sincere record . . . our time needs such stark devotion as his."—G. S. FRASER in the Observer

"Uncommonly good . . . commands sympathy and respect."—RAYMOND MORTIMER in the Sunday Times

"There can be no mistaking the sincerity and the eloquence with which Merton conveys the spiritual tension . . . impressive."—GEORGE MALCOLM THOMSON in the Evening Standard

"One of the only books about the life of the spirit which is at once in modern slang and flattering to contemporary intelligence . . . a direct and moving personal story . . . modern and very good."—JOHN BETJEMAN in the Daily Herald

"Elected Silence is without question one of the most interesting books of personal revelation published in the past few years."—PETER QUENNEL in the Daily Mail

"Mr. Merton's spiritual progress from disbelief to faith is impressively and sincerely conveyed . . . He has notably and usefully succeeded in presenting in contemporary idiom his reaction against a prevailing spirit of materialism and futility."—MALCOLM MUGGERIDGE in the Daily Telegraph
