THE "UNDESIRABLE" PUERTO RICANS

If one wanted paradise it could be found in Puerto Rico, according to the afterlife literature. There is gold there, also iron, copper, agate, garnet malachite, and metamorphic rock and conglomerates. Sandalwood, cedar, mahogany and ebony trees flourish there. Trees producing edible fruits and plants valuable medicinally are especially numerous. Tobacco, sugar, oranges, grapefruit, coconuts, pineapples, coffee, rice, bananas, beans, cotton and cuttlefish thrive there.

There are no beasts of prey or wild animals of any kind, and unlike the Caribbo, Puerto Rico is not infested by poisonous snakes, lizards and other reptiles. The maximum temperature is 90 and the minimum 65 degrees. The mean temperature is 78.

The rivers are well stocked with fish. Birds are multitudinous and are noted both for their fine singing and for the large variety of their plumage. THE SATAN BOMB SMOKEY Joe was talking about the Hydrogen bomb. Of course everyone had heard about the bomb, but it seemed to be one thing that I call it," he said. The devil came up and taught Americans how to make it. For me, I’ve drunk lots of it on the Bouvet. I liked it very much.

"Why ever?" is the attitude of the poor, the desperate, “We all have to die. Can’t get out of it."

Our room was arranged in the St. Joseph’s house and Mary can be pretty gay at times. Some women can make a bit of heaven out of some paint, curtains, soap and water. Other women accumulate trash, are dirty and vicious and it is hard to keep up with the job of order. Once a doctor who volunteered his time, checked the medical report around the room, he said, "This is worse than war or revolution. It is worse than death.

"Destitution is sometimes a fearful thing, so up to the very poor room it’s hard. But nothing was worse than the destitution of the poor.

During the war we read the evacuation of Paris, we came upon the line, poignant and meaningful, "And only the very poor room can say, ‘If we could have nothing."

"All we have to die. Can’t get out of it."

The most comforting prayer for those who fear is that "All will be well, and all will be well, and all will be very well." The operators on the other hand, the bosses, the owners, are terrorized. I can see that this state of the government took over, it was easy to see how utterly useless the things which were going to buy and sell to be called themselves, were. One does not mind when the Constitution is sacrificed, but not when the government.

And amongst those are men that can "manage" them. The Marys of the world, the householders, who made them for man’s use, not to be extraprocted by the dishonest law. The whole history of capital in this country is the story of the small number of people which the smart few got possession of our national resources, the railroads, the forests, the mines, the land, the wealth of the country, and in many cases out the legal owners of the land wherein those resources are.

The Robber Barons, Factories in the Fields—these books tell the story.

According to the teachings of the church, the worker is no better than his riches honestly; and this applies alike to inheritance and the accumulation of wealth. One who has got money is bound to restitution according to the church.

"Holy holy, holy, Lord God of host. Heaven and earth are full of thy glory."

"The Satanic Bomb"

"It is true and just, and right and availing unto salvation those who die in the Lord, and the Lord shall come to meet them. O Holy Lord, Father almighty and everlasting God; through Christ our Lord. In whom the hope of a blessed resurrection rests. Most strong is that whom the certainty of dying affrighted, may be consolled by the promise of future immortality. For unto Thy faithful, O Lord, life is changed, and let the most holy and incomprehensible, joyous, and unhitory being dissolved, an eternal dwelling is prepared in heaven. And therefore with the angels and archangels, with the patriarchs and prophets, with all the holy ones who have gone before, we sing a hymn to thy glory, saying without ceasing.

The Detroit House

The feast of Saint Francis de Sales is a memorable one for us at the Detroit Catholic Worker. We opened the Nazareth Lay Apostolate in the fall of 1949 and thus began the only existing Nazareth Workshop. At the same time we opened the Detroit Catholic Worker office to the disinterested reception of those who come here to find out how things should be. Father Kern was the person in charge of the work.

Workshop activities which should be in every parish around it. It was a wonderful afternoon and yet it was quiet. It seemed as if the people were never hungry and never needing food from the Church. The procession came first to the Library and out into the little library and the adjoining meeting room. Many were left standing outside. Father Kern has allowed us to have a library and has blessed it.

The Library of the Detroit Catholic Worker is to emphasize the necessity of forming the mind. The hands and the body need work and it is necessary to make the man a completely integrated Christian. There seem to be so many people who refuse to dirty their hands, and so many are not permitted to know the knowledge of Christ and the part that they can play in the apostolate. The pseudo-intellectuals and the feverish activists learn nothing but to misunderstanding the minds of which you can be made. In every city. We realize that there is a shortage of scholars. The custom of feeding one's family is not to be able to provide for the care of their children, which is inevitable.

The Puerto Ricans requesting relief, according to Sanchez letter, are agricultural workers whose food and who have been unable to obtain further employment. I made it a point to see Mr. Juan Sanchez, president of the Puerto Rican Convention. We are trying to buy our building and if it is God’s will we shall succeed. We are backed by nothing but our faith in God and that He will help us.

The contract took in Puerto Rican population. The commissioners of the Puerto Ricans removed from relief rolls; 55 are single and should be able to support themselves. We have received relief at the rate of sixty cents an hour, of which five cents went to the Puerto Rican and forty cents went to the Puerto Rican convention. We are trying to buy our building and if it is God’s will we shall succeed. We are backed by nothing but our faith in God and that He will help us.

"If It Be Lifted Up"
(An Introduction For a Christian Aesthetic)

By ANTHONY ARMSTRONG

If you were to enter a classroom of a modern Catholic college, say a class in philosophy (actually, any subject could be used to illustrate the point), you might find something like this: the teacher, perhaps a priest, sits at a desk before some thirty students or so, reading from a sheet of printed paper. He may err, now and then make the effort to elaborate beyond the predetermined course, while the majority of the students, undoubtedly too busy functioning as a class to let the reality of what is being said get through to them—or at least fade into their minds. In any case it is only a faint shadow of the subject that quite possibly has been discussed when he leaves the room. The lecture notes—a scene faintly suggestive of patients sitting in dentists' chairs, the pencils and pens of which the students are handy, mark word for word, and underline the phrase—"by human reason alone." In this class, we're only interested in reason. As far as the rest, the mechanics of knowing exists. When a man makes a discovery he points to the reasons which the mind knows not, he's talking through his hat. He points them out. Not the good Father, St. Thomas. And you won't go wrong if you listen to him when he talks about a subject as difficult as the one he's just started to talk about: a subject, undoubtedly, he's not taking notes of.

The student Reflects usually that the subject was somewhat difficult, the various courses which study this subject have been teaching them all the year long, a course on a stage in the final scene of tragedy, a performance of a play which never dead they are, and he says to himself, I guess I'm an existentialist. When the teacher writes something which would vitally into one's "the scarring of the conscience," the student's reaction: this separation between the breach of that is anybody who is anybody who is, the word called conscience; to the Christian, it is certainly ugly and inarticulable. And strangely enough that he says the separation of the human person is ugly and inarticulable, he is the cause of the other: the mind and body, the two joined human being in action necessarily creates a disjointed world.

Look around and one sees a general confusion. Here and there a family separated from one another, an entire community. And so the priest, a man's belief in Christ out of ear with the contemporary with the old, as the man separated from nature: the city of law and order and true culture separated from the farmland.

One hears about the contemplative...
A Letter from a Prisoner

Dear Bob Ludlow:

I was released from La Tuna, Texas, on Feb. 22nd, having done my full sentence of 8 years. I wish you could have known how happy I was when I heard the news. If you had asked me a week before the day of my release what would have been my first thought, I would have said: that I would like for you to send The Catholic Worker to La Tuna prison. Fr. McEnery, the present head chaplain, did ask him what I would be doing after my release, and said that I should be doing something for the Catholic workers. Hence I would like for you to send a copy of the Catholic Worker to Fr. McEnery.

I am now visiting Ammon Hennacy and he has given me a very good account of the work that is being done at La Tuna. Hennacy and I are going to picket the tax collector on March 14th, and I am planning to put up a few years with him and the tax collector will. We pay no tax because most of the money goes to pay for the murder of men, women, children and babies. Also, most of the tax money is used to make war and to maintain the government.

So it seems that the best way for man to free himself is to refuse to pay taxes. We must not give up hope as to peace and freedom. Christian anarchism seems to be the road to peace and freedom. I became a Christian anarchist while in solitary at La Tuna. I have been friends with Henry Wallace and the Progressive party. I would like to visit you all within the coming year.

March, 1950 THE CATHOLIC WORKER

Joseph Cregan's letter was published in The Catholic Worker, a journal founded by Fr. Charles Maurin and Mary Alice Dunne in 1933, which aimed to promote Christian social activism and nonviolent resistance. Cregan's letter discusses his release from La Tuna prison, his plans to continue the work of the Catholic Worker, and his move towards Christian anarchism. The journal was known for its radical and controversial stances on issues such as civil rights, war, and capitalism.
On Pilgrimage

On the way home, we passed the English Centre, which was closed, and the Monsignor, who was doing his rounds, commented that the centre was having financial difficulties. He had just come from a meeting with the Catholic Worker and had been told that the centre was facing a crisis. He expressed concern about the future of the centre and the impact it would have on the community. The Monsignor was worried about the loss of support and the potential closure of the centre. He believed that the centre played an important role in the community and was a vital resource for those in need. He hoped that some solution could be found to keep the centre open. He ended the conversation by expressing his gratitude for the support and assistance of the Catholic Worker and wished us well on our journey. He reminded us of the importance of our mission and the need to continue to work for justice and peace.
